

5 pro-life talking points to get you started.

Not sure how to talk to other people about pro-life issues that matter to you? Here are 5 easy talking points to help get the conversation going. Print them out, hang them on your fridge, or keep them handy to refer to any time you need a place to start! You've got this!

1. Human rights are for all human beings.

A person's size or location does not determine their value. Pre-born children deserve the same protections as born children. Why would birth change anything?

2. Women deserve better than abortion.

Promoting abortion avoids dealing with other problems women face - domestic violence, low income, lack of social support, etc. We need laws that offer real support to parents.

3. Governments have the obligation to uphold human rights.

Human rights are not given to us by the government; instead, the government must protect human rights, especially for the vulnerable.

4. Canada has no abortion law.

Abortion is legal at any gestational age, for any reason. We are the only democratic country in the world with no abortion law - we are the ones with the extreme position.

5. Canadians have common ground on this.

Most Canadians agree that abortion should not be used for sex selection, and that abortion should be illegal in the second or third trimester. Can we agree that there are some restrictions on abortion that you would support?
